ystery of Robbery At Anna Vacar Restaurant Solved

ANG IS SERVING LONG SENTENCES

ne In Nebraska Pen, One
In Akron Jail, Third
In Reformatory

Three men who boldly invaded
a restaurant operated by Anna Vacar on South Broadway in the summer of 1933, jamming a crowd of patrons into nooks and crannies, and escaping with $1,600,
are in three different prisons in various parts of the country, it is revealed today by Chief of Police Ralph Stoffer, bringing to an end the mystery of one of the most profitable and most profitable "stick-
ups" here in recent years.

Was Cashing Checks

Mrs. Vacar had procured most of the money from the bank that day
in cash checks for her patrons.
There were many in the restaurant early in the afternoon when the men entered, a third member of the group remaining outside at the wheel of the car, although unnoticed at the time.

The two men mingled with the patrons, studied the "layout," and
finally, deciding the time was ripe,
sneaked into the kitchen and demanded Mrs. Vacar's money.

One went after the money and the other herded customers behind bars, into rest rooms and other places with guns waving in his hands.

They collected, backed out the front door, climbed into the car and drove away.

All Three in Jail

One man today is in jail in Akron. His name was not revealed, pending a further investigation of
his case.
Mark Guy, 26, of Akron, is in the Nebraska state penitentiary, serving a 25-year sentence on another holdup charge. He was called the gunman of the outfit.

Fred Slabaugh, 19, of Akron also,
is serving an indeterminate term in the Mansfield reformatory, also on a holdup charge. The men were identified after one of them tipped authorities off that they had been seen at the restaurant holdup gang.

Orders Governor's Rug "Display" Off

COLUMBUS, April 20.—Contending that nearly three hundred rugs,
which had been slung in several places
to allow passage of telephone and electric wires, constituted a menace
to the life and limb of state house visitors, T. S. Brindle, director of public works, ordered removal of Governor Davey's display of the rugs of his executive office.

As part of his public appeal to raise $10,000 for new carpeting, the governor had placed the rugs in the capitol rotunda. The governor was looking for a new display section
today.

Printing Firm Gets Order It Can't Fill

CHARLESTON, W. Va., April 20.—
A printing company got an order
for a plate to "print good $5 bills."
The letter offered "a good price"
for such a plate.

A federal agent posed as a printing company representative and N. C. Villiconi is under arrest as the writer.

An attempt will be made to mobilize voters in the farm district under the banner of a left-wing political movement at a convention called for May 7
at Des Moines, Ia., by Milo Reno, president of the Farmers' Holiday association and moving spirit behind the farm strikes of 1932. Invitation has been extended Senator Huey Long of Louisiana,
Gov. Floyd B. Olson of Minnesota, and the Rev.
Charles E. Coughlin to attend. Dr. Francis E.
Townsend, author of the Townsend old-age pension plan, declined the invitation. A Republican mid-west caucus is also planned.

HITLER TURNS BACK REBUKE

Fuhrer Rejects League's Condemnation Of Germany

(By Associated Press)
ROME, April 20.—Reichsfuehrer
Hitler of Germany in a strong note
to Premier Mussolini today rejected
"in the most resolute manner" the league council's condemnation of his country.

He also challenged the right of the governments represented on the council to "make themselves
judges over Germany," and characterized their deliberations as "a new discrimination."

The German note, delivered by Ulrich von Hassel, the German ambassador, to the foreign ministry,
was the long-awaited answer to the council's censure of the Reich for rearming in violation of the Versailles treaty.

The note rejects "in the most resolute manner" the council's notification and reserves the right to make known soon Germany's position with regard to the various questions touched upon by the council.

The text of the note which Ambassador von Hassel consigned to Baron Pompeo Aloisi, chief in the foreign ministry, follows:

"The German government contends to the governments which in the council of the league of nations
took in the deliberations of April 17 the right of making themselves
judges over Germany. The government sees in the deliberation of the council of the league an attempt of new discriminations against Germany and therefore rejects it in the most resolute manner.

"The government reserves the right to make known soon her position on different questions
touched upon in the deliberation."

Sebring Host To Legionnaires May 6

SEBRING, April 20.—William Konald of Warren, state commander of the American Legion, will address 500 Legionnaires expected
here at a Fifth Division bivouac

Drum corps from Youngstown, Alliance, and Struthers and several visiting bands will parade as the evening feature.

Decides Law Case

LISBON, April 20.—Common
pleas court today held disposition of the case of H. W. Summers, 79, West township justice of the peace,
charged with unauthorized practice
of law. The case reached action on a petition filed in April, 1934, by H. L. McCarthy and Lozier Cap-
lan, Salem; H. F. Lang of East Liverpool; K. T. Stoffer of Home-
worth and Robert Hall of Lisbon,

Treasurer's Office Has "$100,000 Day"

Friday was the peak day at the county treasurer's office during the present real estate tax collection period.

more than $100,000. This does not include the collections at the various branch agencies.

Tonight is the deadline on real estate payments.

Noted Evangelists Will Appear Here

Prof. and Mrs. Everett C. Mills
will hold an interesting program
and service at the Baptist church at 7:45 p. m. Monday.

They will present a group of musical numbers, including whistling, saw, vocal duets, choruses, etc. The most unique musical instrument they will use will be the "theremin,"
which is played without touching.

Mrs. Mills was on the chautauqua platform for a number of seasons.
The duo will offer readings and object lessons. Mr. Mills specializes in this form of teaching and during the evening he will use the following demonstrations: "Making of the American Flag," "Nations Divided
and United," "54 Link Prayer
Chain," "Lives Broken by Habits
Restored," "Making of the Pilot
Wheel," "Severed Love Cord, Cut
and Restored" and "Mystery Cut Paper Story of the Crucifixion."

This is the Mill's 20th season of this kind of work. They have just closed a two weeks meeting in the Epworth M. E. church of Youngstown, and are now closing
a meeting in the First M. E. church of East Palestine. One feature of their meeting is the afternoon children's meeting, in which over 500
children gather each day.

CLEVELAND, April 20.—The determined notes of 27 high school
bands, 13 orchestras and 28
choruses sounded out in suburban Berea today as the Northeastern Ohio band orchestra and chorus competitive festival approached its conclusion.

Yesterday's winners were: Class
A, Akron North; Class B, Kent;
Roosevelt and Lisbon; Class C,
Lodi and McDonald; Class C, East
Conneaut and Valley City.

Quakes Reported

CINCINNATI, O., April 20.—The earthquake reported from various points in Europe and the United States yesterday was the "most severe" recorded by the Xavier university seismograph in recent months, the Rev. Victor J. Stechschulte, seismologist, said today. The shocks, beginning at 10:25:20 a. m.
(E. S. T.), continued for more than two hours and the epicenter of the disturbance "probably was in the Balkans or the islands of the Aegean sea," he declared.

SMITH TOWNSHIP DRY IN RECOUNT

Prohibitionists Score
Sweeping Victory
Over Wets

YOUNGSTOWN, April 20.—
Smith township wets, who caused
a recount of a local option election
held in the township April 9, yesterday not only paid $15 for the recount but changed what had been a partial victory for their party into a complete defeat, even to the extent of a ban on state liquor stores.

The vote, which was sought by the wets, now definitely bars the sale of liquor or wine in any form
in the township outside of the wet villages of Sebring and Beloit,
and forestalls another election on the question for four years unless there is some change in election or liquor laws before that time.

In the recount yesterday, the
wets' one-vote margin in the state liquor store question was changed to an eight-vote victory for the drys, and a wet two-vote margin
on the question "shall sale of intoxicating liquors be permitted?"
was changed to a one-vote margin
for the drys.

The drys' margin on the question
of sale of wine by the package was widened from eight to nine; on the question of ale or wine for sale on or off the premises it was widened
from seven to nine and on the question of sale of spirituous liquors by the glass, the question in which the wets were most vitally interested, the drys' victory was increased from 12 to 18.

Capital Observes

Easter Programs

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Amid
balmey weather that ended weeks
of rain and cold, the capital prepared today for an Easteride
which will see dignitaries from the president down attending church services.

On Monday will come the traditional egg rolling on the White House lawn—expected to attract
such a large crowd of children that there may be little space for the eggs to roll.

President and Mrs. Roosevelt and members of their household will lead the nation in public worship
at St. Thomas' church. Mrs. Roosevelt plans also to go to sunrise
services at the Arlington amphitheatre.

Another Tea Party,

But Not In Boston

NEW YORK, April 20.—The government was the sponsor, not the target of the New York tea party.
It dumped 3,500 chests of tea valued at $75,000 into the sea. The tea, damaged by smoke and water
during a fire, had been ruled unfit for human consumption.

SECURITY BILL SNAGGED, HITS JAM IN SENATE

Long Delay Threatened
For Administration
Proposal

DRASTIC CHANGES MAY BE ATTEMPTED

Measure Swept Through
House By Decisive
372-33 Vote

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 20.—Swept through the house of representatives by a lop-sided vote, the Roosevelt social security bill ran today
into a legislative jam in the senate
which threatened long delay.

New attempts to write sweeping changes into the bill—designed to eventually levy $2,783,000,000 or more
in new taxes for financial help to the aged, jobless, children and mothers—also were in prospect.

Sweeps Through House

The 372 to 33 vote which jammed
the bill through the house yesterday were made possible by smooth
functioning of the overwhelming Democratic machine and by the
"ayes" of many Republicans who had lost their battle to delete the new taxes from the bill. Off-the-record, some of these Republicans
said they had to vote for the whole
bill on the final roll call to avoid
"political suicide."

Fresh from this victory—which followed almost three months of dispute—the bill went to the senate finance committee, already tied up
in controversy over the cash bonus
and NRA.

No one of the senate side of the capital disputed today that the social security bill faced much tougher sledding there than it did in the house. Already many suggestions for modifications had risen,
not only from Republicans, but from the Democratic ranks as well.

As passed by the house, the measure touches on all the phases
of "economic security" outlined in a message President Roosevelt sent to Congress Jan. 17. However, in most cases the aid for the persons covered would materialize only if the states did something for them.

Two Kinds of Pensions

There are two kinds of old age
pensions:

1. If a state has a satisfactory
pension system for the aged needy
over 65, the federal government will match what the state pays—up to $15 a month.

2. The second system applies to people working for salaries, commissions or income. On the first $3,000 earned annually, the workers
must pay the federal government

"Hen or Hatchery?" Is Grange Question

The question, "Should We Let the Hen or a Hatchery Hatch Our Chicks?" was discussed by Milton
Crawford at last night's session of Willow Grove grange. Mr. Crawford indicated that he favored the incubator method of hatching.

Other events on the program were:
Opening song by the grange, "Onward Christian Soldiers"; roll call,
"Is the Old Age Pension a Benefit
or a Detriment to Our Nation?";
cornet solo, Nelson Conrad; poem,
"How to Tell When Easter Comes,"
Donald Taylor; stunt, Nelson Conrad; poem, Janet Crawford; prize
feature, Ralph Crawford.

One candidate was obligated in the first and second degrees during the meeting. Ladies of the grange will serve the dinner for the Devoting Foremen's club April 26 at the grange hall.

The regular meeting of the grange
will be May 3.

EASTER WEATHER

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 20.—A cool, wet Easter is in prospect along the Atlantic seaboard from southern New Jersey to northern Florida.

The weather bureau said today rain probably would begin tonight in this area and continue through tomorrow
with slightly cooler weather.

The bureau was positive that rain would fall in Washington
and much more could be expected in Tennessee.

Fair weather was predicted
for Kentucky and Ohio, as well
as for the midwest.

JOY RIDE FATAL

SALISBURY, Md., April 20.—
Six young people, out on a joyride, were killed today as their automobile crashed into a parked truck at Powellville,
nine miles east of here.

Two were killed instantly and four died later in the Peninsula hospital here without regaining consciousness. All the plant, made the announcement. The plant will not operate meanwhile,
Dyer said.

Braves Operation

David Taylor, 13, above, New Orleans orphan, was missing 2 days
before his foster-grandmother, with whom he lives, found him in the hospital where he had entered himself
and had been operated on for appendicitis.

RELIEF TO HIT 1936 CAMPAIGNS

Repercussions Feared By Capital As Result Of
Flaring Disputes

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON, April 20.—The capital wondered today if the flaring disputes involving relief and work money might not have repercussions in the 1936 election campaign.

Political battles to come were foreshadowed plainly, some observers said, by latest developments in the new deal's controversies
with Senator Huey P. Long, and Governor Talmadge of Georgia.

Opinions Differ

President Roosevelt's assertion
yesterday that he was trying to keep politics out of relief, and the charge by Senator Hastings (R.
Del.), that the administration is "playing politics with relief," gave an indication of the direction
which future campaign clashes
might take. Hastings contended
the government is denying aid to persons who do not subscribe to its policies.

Governor Talmadge of Georgia,
whose connections with the administration of federal relief funds in his state was severed after he had described the President as "a radical of the extreme form,"
showed no signs of relaxing his opposition to the Roosevelt government.

"The federal government has undertaken to provide relief," commented Representative Castellow
Georgia Democrat, "and I think it is the opinion of our congressional delegation that the needy of our state should not be visited with punitive punishment because of a controversy between federal officials and our state officials."

Harry L. Hopkins, the relief administrator, has threatened to cut off federal money from states failing to contribute what he considers
a fair share toward a fund to support unemployed who will not benefit from the government's $4,000,000,000 work relief appropriation.

Open defiance continues to be the answer of Senator Long and his associates in Louisiana to the threat of Secretary Ickes to withhold public works funds if the state legislature gives Long control over them.

R. G. McDevitt, 78, Farmer, Succumbs

LISBON, April 20.—R. G. Mc-Devitt, 78, life-long resident of Center township and well-known farmer
of this vicinity, died suddenly at 10
p. m. Friday at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Margaret James,
West Water st.

Born May 8, 1857, at the McDevitt
homestead three miles south of here, Mr. McDevitt became engaged in agriculture and followed it all his life. He was a member of the Presbyterian church.

He is survived by four brothers,
Davis of East Palestine, Elmer of Beaver Falls, and James and Isaac
of New York state; five sons, Murray and Raymond at home, Leroy of Wellsville, Carl of Salem, and Lawrence of East Liverpool; four daughters, Mrs. Theodore James and Mrs.
W. H. Welsh of Lisbon, Mrs. W. H.
Finnis and Mrs. Paul White of East Liverpool. Also, 24 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

Friends may call at the home
anytime.

Funeral service will be held at 1:30 p. m. Monday at the home in charge of Rev. J. Cox, pastor of the Presbyterian church. Burial in the Madison Presbyterian church cemetery.

Seek Clay Peace

TORONTO, April 20.—An attempt
will be made at a conference next Wednesday with Hugh D. Prell, federal labor conciliator, to reach a settlement of difficulties at the Kaul Clay company plant, which was closed last Wednesday after a strike picket was shot to death.
James J. Dyer, manager of the plant, made the announcement. The
plant will not operate meanwhile,
Dyer said.

Speaker Eulogizes Slain Canton Man As Fearless Editor

(By Associated Press)

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., April 20.—
Lee A. White, editorial board member of the Detroit News, told an audience last night that "four fifths of the world's press today
knows how cruelly the powers of the censor may be applied."

White eulogized Don R. Mellett, who was slain 10 years ago by gangsters while he was conducting an editorial crusade against vice and corruption in Canton, O. The Indiana university chapter of Sigma Delta Chi, journalistic fraternity, established its campus
"den" as a Mellett memorial today.
Mellett at the time of his death
was editor of the Canton Daily News.

"It is a vivid commentary on the stupidity of the underworld that it should have taken this avenue of escape," White said. "Truth set on foot is in itself a victory, even though the fruits of that victory
may be perhaps posthumous."

Earlier in the day White accompanied by Mellett's widow and leaders of the fraternity placed a floral wreath on the former editor's grave
in Indianapolis.

NO BOND MORATORIUM

Gov. Davey's proposed bond moratorium apparently has served its purpose for the present. Opposition has forced it to be side tracked, and the governor has consented to a substitute measure for the aid of political divisions. The substitute proposal provides for refunding bonds and will be the principal legislative subject for next week.

Gov. Davey used the bond moratorium proposal extensively in his campaign last fall. He stuck to it even though his party refused to include it in the official platform. Possibly it caused him to lose some votes, but it also enabled him to gain more than he lost. It sounded like an easy way out of a hard difficulty.

Whether or not Gov. Davey really believed in it is a subject of conjecture. Whatever his opinion may have been, he has abandoned it now. He has predicted, however, that within a year "there will be clamor for more help if the moratorium isn't passed." Thus, the idea may be brought out again before the end of his term.

There are two strong objections to a bond moratorium. One is entirely practical. A moratorium, it is plain, would have an adverse effect on the credit of Ohio's political divisions. The state cannot afford to handicap itself as long as less drastic action can be taken. Perhaps, as Gov. Davey predicts, there will be a clamor for more help. That, however, is an eventuality which may be averted.

The second objection is moral. Despite desperation, Americans still have a loathing for any action which smacks of bad faith. Their feeling in this respect lay behind objection to the federal government's repudiation of the gold clause. They were reconciled to it only insofar as they were able to agree that practical considerations outweighed moral considerations.

A MORE COMPACT WORLD

The captain of the giant plane "Pioneer," which was flown from California to Honolulu in less than 18 hours Wednesday, is Edwin G. Musick. He is proud of the thing he has helped do to do. The Hawaiian Islands have been moved out of their isolation.

Eight years ago Capt. Musick started a flying route which extended approximately 90 miles, from Florida to Havana. That route now stretches 32,000 miles to virtually every part of South America. The flight last Wednesday was much longer than the 90 mile beginning made in 1927, but its 2,400 miles represents only a part of the distance which soon will be covered on schedule by commercial planes.

Igor Sikorsky, designer of the ship used in the Hawaiian flight, was making a speech while the flight was in progress. In the immediate future, he declared, flying boats capable of carrying 75 to 100 passengers will be traveling on 24 hour schedule between the United States and Europe. Mr. Sikorsky's prediction, incidentally, is cautious. Others have stated that 10 hours will be the ultimate basis of the Atlantic schedule.

Slowly, it is becoming a more compact world. Aviation is becoming an essential rather than a diverting phase of existence. Young people are learning to fly as a matter of course. Airplane travel has become commonplace. It is news today that a huge plane flew safely from California to Honolulu on schedule. It will be news tomorrow when a larger plane fails to fly the same route on schedule. Commercial pilots have superseded the trail blazing stunt aviators of yesterday. Aviation has come of age.

Rep. Tinkham says the Japanese are as civilized as ourselves. A few haphazard cracks like this could bring us to the brink of war.—Detroit News.

THE STARS SAY

For Sunday, April 21

Sunday's horoscope holds augury of an eventful and unsettled day, with possibly great issues at stake. This may be in connection with the death of an elderly person, whose going may effect the personal fortunes and interests.

Those whose birthday it is may be prepared for a year of sudden change, with new environs, interests and prospects, these possibly instigated by the illness or passing of an elderly person.

A child born on this day may be talented and skillful in unusual lines, adventurous and ambitious but kindly, sentimental and popular.

Notable nativity: Josh Billings, humorist.

For Monday, April 22

Monday's astrological forecast is for a day of eventual promise and good fortune, but seems to be beset by much confusion, anxiety and distress. Important change seems imminent in relation to a bereavement or the passing of an elderly person of affectionate regard.

Those whose birthday it is, may find themselves caught in the toils of a year of much commotion, perplexity and sorrow, but those, if met with wisdom, should eventually rebound to good fortune, personal happiness and welfare.

A child born on this day may have many talents but will be fond of change and adventure and probably will have an eventful life.

Notable nativity: Kitty Gordon, actress.

O. O. McINTYRE

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

NEW YORK, April 20—Don't look now but there's a stiff from the tax office in the doorway! He's probably heard about the free air I've been breathing. Or about my two fountain pens. No writer should have more than one without paying the nation, state, county and city something. Not in this age!

But keen on taxing, Masters! They wouldn't stop in France, you know, until some one cried: "On to Versailles!" And what a mess that was. What's he just standing there for? Trying to frighten me, eh? Well, I don't scare worth a hoot-nanny. My voice is squeaking this way because I swallowed a peach seed.

Maybe he wants to play. I have a notion to touch him, yell "You're it!" and go bounding over chairs. He might think I'm crazy and go home. No, he's coming in. Have I a moment to spare? Indeed I have nothing else to spare since you boys have been working on me, you teases.

He says he knows, of course, I'm thoroughly honest. O, yeah! Well, why's he snooping around? Just the beagle in him, I suppose. Would I mind letting him see my bank book? Certainly not. I'll be glad to show everything, including my scar where the pet raccoon bit me.

Take this big easy chair with the foot dingus. That's the one Irvin Cobb enjoys. You'd love Irvin. Always good for a laugh. I'll give you his address so you can go up and ask him lots and lots of questions. Have him tell you about the ice wagon driver and the deaf old lady. That is a one, ha, ha, ha, ho! Getting hysterical. I'd better calm down. He didn't come to joke. He came to soak. Look, when most people would be twittery I get off things! Ever merry and bright.

He sits there without saying a word, putting the ends of his fingers together. And listening to me rattle away like an old flivver. I couldn't let him come here and do the talking. He's going to say something. No, he only cleared his throat. I might join him in a polite throat clearing contest.

But if I did it would be my luck if I get in the lead to break a whoopie-string or something in the home stretch. In fact I'm more of the quiet behind-the-hand schemer. He's swimming through my bank book now and jotting down things. Still he won't talk. The moody sort. He looks up ready to speak. The inquisition is on, I reckon. He only wants to know if I enjoy baseball. I'd better handle that cagey. It might lead up to something. I'll tell him some days I do and some I don't. He nods and taps fingers again. Trying to wear me down, I suppose. This can't go on forever. He's playing me like a fish on a line. Why doesn't he come out with it? My week end bag is packed. There are worse places than jail. Hey, Jack gotta match? One thing certain. You can be alone. And not have stick-in-the-muds sitting around looking holes through you. And finger tapping.

Wait a second. He's going to break his silence. He wants to see my vouchers. It's been so long since I vouched, I have no idea where they are. Just what is a voucher anyway? What a cinch to find vouchers with my system. Everything in perfect order. A place for everything and everything in its place. Each morning the whole household has to organize a general search for paper to put in my typewriter. Find a voucher, indeed! I suppose he thinks when I get hold of a voucher—whatever they are—I marry it. If he wants vouchers let him take a high dive into this trash on my desk and he may come up with not only a handful of vouchers but a pair of roller skates, some magic lantern slides and a set of castoff dress shields. Voucher, voucher, who's got a voucher! I'm bawling again.

He wants to know where I was on the night of June 4, 1933. This is not income tax business, it's murder. He's probably the district attorney. He says the next day I turned in a whopping expense account. Surely, I remember that night. And was I putting it on! Cocktails and dinner at the Colony, 12 first row seats at "As Thousands Cheer," on to the Casino for dancing, a night club and Reuben's. He's finger tapping again and as bored as Julia Hoyt tries to appear. He doesn't believe a word. Not a word, he doesn't. He's going. Right after he creeps into your affections, he goes. I may never see him again.

HEALTH

Seek Underlying Cause of Hives

Within recent months I have received numerous requests for information about a skin disturbance known as "urticaria" or "hives." This is an annoying, prevalent at all times of the year.

Sometimes, as strange as it may seem, it appears to be due to some emotional disturbance. As a rule it is a symptom of some peculiar sensitivity of the body to a food or other offending substance. An article of clothing or some materials to which the sufferer is exposed may bring on the symptoms. In most instances the offending substance is of a protein nature. Whatever it is, when the victim is exposed to this substance, marked irritation and swelling of the skin will follow.

He complains of a sudden and intense itching of the skin. "Wheals," circular swelling, appear in the skin. These vary in size, number and location. They resemble the swelling produced by a mosquito bite. At times they may become as large as a fifty-cent piece.

Warm Soda Bath
Relief can be obtained by taking a warm bath containing baking soda, oatmeal or bran. In a severe attack immediate relief can be given by the hypodermic injection of a small amount of a drug called "adrenalin." Of course, this can only be given by your physician. But, marked as it is, this relief is only temporary and sooner or later the rash appears again.

The sufferer learns to avoid the food or other substance that leads to hives. For example, many persons cannot eat strawberries or shellfish. They are sensitive to these foods and in order to prevent attacks of hives they must omit these substances from the diet.

Unfortunately, not all cases of urticaria, or hives, are easily controlled.

Some persons suffer repeated attacks for weeks, months and even years and continue to be unaware of the actual cause.

Determine the Source
Urticaria is often found among those engaged in certain occupations, particularly where the worker is exposed to a chemical or some metallic substance. Several weeks may elapse before the victim discovers the cause. This is indeed an annoying and embarrassing disturbance. Every effort must be made to determine the source of the irritation. Bear in mind that this is sometimes due to faulty bowel action. Localized infections, such as is associated with infected teeth, tonsils or nasal sinuses, are other possible sources of the trouble.

In many cases the cause for this peculiar sensitivity can be determined by certain skin tests. These are similar to the tests used for detecting the source of irritation in hay fever and asthma. I strongly recommend the tests for all who are made miserable by persistent and prolonged attacks of urticaria.

An Eternal Sensation

When on Easter morning the an- gel of God announced at the open tomb of Jesus, "He is not here; He is risen," he proclaimed the most thrilling, startling and sensational happening that has ever transpired on the face of this old earth. It affected not only the contempor- aries of the risen Christ, but was retroactive in its significance back to the first man that ever lived and including in its forward-reaching blessing that last man that shall draw breath on the face of this old earth. It was sensational in its meaning for us. It has lost none of its thrilling power because it de- clares and establishes our eternal redemption. It is the divine declar- ation of our independence from the thralldom of hell and the doom of everlasting rejection from God. It opens heaven for us. It gives sense and meaning to our temporal exist- ence. Even in these times of fre- quent sensations nothing is so sen- sational as the story of Christ's resurrection from the dead.

Let us gather on Easter morning with jubilant hearts at the open tomb and celebrate the victory festi- val of the children of God.

"IMMORTALITY, The Message of Easter"

"And if Christ be not raised, our preaching is in vain; ye are yet in your sins." These words were written by the Apostle Paul, who continued to depict a very dark picture of conditions if that assumption were correct. He hastened to say, however, "But in reality, Christ has arisen from the dead." Our preach- ing is not in vain. Our faith is not an illusion. They who have fallen asleep in Christ Jesus have not perished. They opened their eyes in Christ's presence. We can confirm Paul's state- ment today because historic fact has proven it. Spiritual ex- perience has proven it; regenerated lives and transformed communities and nations have proven it. If we have a believ- ing heart, the power of the Resurrection will bring us encour- agement, comfort and hope in all of life. Throngs will attend the various Churches Easter Sunday. Won't you unite your heart and mind with them in a common spirit of worship by at- tending also?

Pattern 2237

No better medium to express the young charm of this frock than King Cotton! A new, bright cheerful cotton, crisp enough to make those ruffles look as perky as they are! The whole dress is as smart and simple as A B C and if you'd rather look "cute" than "perky" make a puff sleeve instead of a flare. one per cent—beginning in January, 1937. Gradually, the tax increases to 3 per cent in 1949. The employer must match these tax payments, dollar for dollar. At 65 years of age, the worker gets what he has paid in, plus interest. For example, if a worker paid taxes for 20 years on a salary of $200 a month, his monthly pension would be $51.25.

As for unemployment insurance, each employer of 10 or more persons will pay a 1 per cent payroll tax beginning in 1938. If the employer's state has unemployment insurance, he may deduct from his payment to the federal government 90 per cent of what he pays the state. The measure is designed to induce the states to set up unemployment insurance systems. Most of the regulations for such systems, including the amount of benefits to workers, are left to the states.

FIRST NATIONAL BANK

SALEM, OHIO

"The Cold Finger Curse"

by EDWIN DIAL TORGERSON

SYNOPSIS

The crowd had gathered as usual at June and Jimmy Kirkman's place at Two-Sixty-Eight Waverly Place, habitat of artists and their ilk. Among them were St. Gregory Valcour, a pseudo artist, Roger Duane, a specialty dancer, and dignified Douglas W. Claitney, the only non-artistic person in the house. They are awaiting the arrival of wealthy Mrs. Charles Elderbank who has just purchased the house next door. Valcour says Mr. Elderbank, who is sixty-two and twenty years his wife's senior, lives in Canada and with proves of her going around with a chap named Merriam, Jimmy notices a stranger watching the house and Valcour says, "It's a process server looking for me, I'm not here."

Later Detective Stranning arrives, looking for Valcour, but Jimmy shields the latter. Stranning claims there is no charge against the artist, but he is wanted for questioning. Violet Elderbank and her handsome escort, Price Merriam arrive. Unknown to Violet, Merriam was really, once played by her husband to guard her. Because of her penchant for jewelry, Elderbank feared for his wife's safety. Violet invites the whole crowd to her house-warming. When she and Merriam leave, Valcour walks to their door with them. As Valcour is about to return home, Detective Stranning emerges from the shadows and arrests him. Some valuable paintings were stolen from an exhibit where Valcour had gone with a batch of his monstrosities. A guard remembered seeing him with an armful of canvases and for that reason he was questioned but later released.

Merriam and his fiancée, Marjorie Clarken, visit Valcour to get his story about the arrest, but Valcour swears them to secrecy because of his patrons.

CHAPTER VI

Glenn told Marjorie good-bye, with the promise that he would call for her at seven.

The party at Mrs. Elderbank's was distinctly under way, however, long before that hour.

Many guests arrived early for cocktails. Violet had sensed the advantage of getting them warmed up in advance—particularly the cohorts from next door. It was confessedly a mixed affair, which was just what Violet desired. The word quite what that people were to do had gone forth that people were to do what they jolly well liked, and only about half of those who came were in evening attire. Fritz Runkel, who had been designated an unofficial master of ceremonies on behalf of Two-Sixty-Eight, wore rough tweed knickers, a white sweater, and a Basque beret perched on the side of his head. St. Gregory Valcour was attired in a tuxedo, with a white shirt and a white bow tie. Kirkman and the other who were expected to pose as Typical Artists for the up-town set affected various other degrees of studio attire.

Violet, who had not wished the responsibility of a full staff of servants, employed only a cook, a butler and two maids. This evening the cook and one of the maids had been excused, and for dinner Violet had called in a caterer's corps, who served a noble repast expertly without leaving a trace of their presence.

An orchestra, discoursed dance music on the second or library floor where two huge rooms had been thrown into one by opening the sliding doors between them. It was here that the authentic Zulu dance of Roger Duane and other diversions were to be given. Roger, however, after a careful daylight inspection of the big library chimney had decided to alter his plan of descending the flue for a surprise entrance. He might get stuck, he said, and the chances were he would be badly scratched in any event. It would be safer and just as effective, he decided, if he hid in the fireplace—it was concealed partially by a screen of palms and other potted plants—or in the flue directly above.

A series of stereopticon and Goodlight effects for the dance had been rehearsed by Roger and Price Merriam, who was to work the machines. To give Roger an opportunity to hide in the chimney, it would only be necessary to blot out all lights for a brief time—long enough to permit him to hurry from his dressing room, a hall bedroom on the library floor, to the fireplace in the double room. They had timed this in rehearsal and had found that one minute of darkness would be ample.

Violet made an effort to assemble all her guests on the library floor shortly after dinner, but this was difficult. People were all over the house inspecting its advantages. The billiard room in the front basement attracted many, others clung to the drawing-room on the floor above and still others evinced a desire to clamber on the roof, for here had been equipped a very comfortable and attractive roof garden.

The house had virtually been remodeled from roof to cellar, though it retained largely the general character of the original, one of the typical three-story and basement private dwellings of which New York has thousands, row upon row. It had been rendered distinctive, however, by a slight elevation of the roof, a new front of tapestry brick, a decorative entrance of Colonial persuasion, new windows and shutters, and an unsparring expenditure upon interior refitting and decoration.

The basement or ground floor contained the billiard room in the front and the kitchen and butler's pantry in the rear. The parlor floor, to which the front steps led, consisted of the drawing-room, the adjoining dining room and a sun parlor in the rear. The second or library floor was comprised of the two exceptionally large rooms connected by folding doors, and the bedroom at the end of the hall which had been assigned to Roger Duane for a dressing room. The third or top floor consisted of three bedrooms. In the top floor hall an electrically operated staircase, which swung out of sight into the ceiling when not in use, served as a means of egress to the roof. Pressing a button brought it down or restored it to the ceiling.

The music at length attracted most of Violet's guests to the library floor, and after a period of general dancing she silenced the orchestra in order to clear the field for one of her celebrities. Violet was a lion-hunter and was not without her pets tonight. A soprano of the Metropolitan Opera sang an amorous aria from Samson et Dalila, a noted actor condescended to do Hamlet's Soliloquy, and a university professor who had written several snappy books discoursed wittily on the sidelines upon the subject of current literary trends. A much admired pianist played nocturnes of Chopin.

Before midnight, noting that the party was rapidly becoming riper and mellow, Fritz Runkel announced that there was to be a special session of the Greenwich Village Hysterical Society, to be followed by general rioting. There was a siege of semi-extemporaneous nonsense that lasted half an hour.

Fritz had the entire company singing "Rolling Back the Sails," with even humming the rough spots, when the butler brought Violet information that Roger Duane and his musicians from the night club had arrived. They were a little earlier than they were expected.

"You have shown them to their dressing room?" asked Violet.

"Yes, madam," said the butler, "but they are already made-up. They came that way from the club."

"Very well, Cupples. Mr. Merriam will see to the rest. If anything is needed let me know at once."

"Yes, madam," said Cupples, and withdrew.

Cupples was a good servant, but not of very prepossessing appearance. He was virtually bald, but what was left of his hair proclaimed that his thatch had been red. His eyebrows were red and bristly, and his eyes, of a greenish-brown tinge, were set too close together. Indeed he gave at certain times the appearance of being cross-eyed, and his eyes burned angrily then as though he sensed your thought and resented it. His features were professionally immobile but their expression was a trifle sullen. Violet had got him through an agency in the neighborhood—Mrs. Elderbank had not been advised that she intended to employ a butler, or he might have sought the good services of the Menial police as he had done in the selection of Violet's chauffeur. Marjorie Clarken had overheard the butler's message to Mrs. Elderbank, and she punched Glenn Thurber in the ribs.

"If there's a diamond robbery and a double murder tonight," she whispered, "I'll know who did it. Why, he even looks crooked—he's cross-eyed."

"Great guns, gal!" fretted Glenn. "You keep looking for trouble."

"But, Glenn, I'm worried about Mrs. Elderbank. She's a shining target for thieves, with all that jewelry loaded on her tonight. And of all this mob in the house tonight I'll bet there are two dozen strangers she doesn't know from Adam's house cat."

"Well, it's her joolry. I wish it was mine. I'd sue for your hand in holy wedlock, and pay all court costs."

"Hush, foolish. Why doesn't she wear paste, if she simply has to dazzle everybody?"

"Maybe she does. I can't tell the difference."

"But I can. She's wearing the real thing. She showed me her pearls, close up. Ouch, but they're marvelous! And listen, Glenn—that butler's pig eyes are not the only reason."

"No?" Has he got fallen arches, too?"

"This isn't funny. You know when I and I were up on the roof, just after dinner—when everybody was strolling around looking the house over?"

"Yes, I admit that much, officer."

"You remember I went near the front parapet, while you and some other people were discussing the fountain statuary?"

"Yes, yes."

"Well, I peeped over into the street, and I saw Cupples step down to the sidewalk and look up and down."

"Maybe he was looking for a taxicab."

"But there was a man hidden in a doorway across the street. He stepped out, looked up and down, then crossed the street quickly and walked past Cupples. Then Cupples evidently said something to him, for he stopped and walked back in the other direction. He had words with Cupples."

"Perhaps Cupples asked him if he had seen a taxicab."

"All right. Be flippant, then. You wait and see. I've got a shivvy feeling about that fellow. He seems to try to sneak up behind people to hear what they are saying."

"He sneaked up behind me with a drink several times," said Glenn gratefully. "I wish he would ambush me again."

"You've had enough," declared Marjorie peremptorily. "Keep your wits about you. There's something going to happen, and you mark my word. That's just the reason he has served so many drinks—he wants everybody cock-eyed."

Violet Elderbank came up to them, followed eagerly by St. Gregory Valcour, who was saying, "I could get them right now, Mrs. Elderbank. They're right next door. It wouldn't take me a minute."

"Very well, do so, then," assented Violet hastily. "Leave them downstairs in the drawing-room."

She turned with a slightly weary expression to Glenn and Marjorie as the importunate painter departed.

"Is he really," implored Violet, "an artist?"

"He's the Village Pest," said Glenn. "It's like him to try to sell a picture to a defenseless hostess. Shall I throw him out for you when he comes back?"

"No, let him live. I merely promised to look at his paintings. He has been trying to corner me for a discussion of art all evening. I suppose I must buy something to get rid of him. Having a good time, are you—both?"

"Marvelous," responded Marjorie. "More fun, more people killed! I never had such a good time since this hog sat up my little brother."

"You children!" laughed Violet. She looked about through the dancing throng. "Have you seen Mr. Merriam lately? I need him for the star feature of the program—Mr. Duane's dance."

Marjorie spied him. "There he is, in the rear, talking to Mr. Claitney."

A Review of the Day's News

—By Arthur Brisbane—

GOOD NEWS for the automobile industry. Uncle Sam, with his forty-four thousand eight hundred and eighty million new dollars to spend, will buy twenty-five thousand automobile trucks for the CCC at a cost of $20,000,000.

Some new trucks, with CCC men that know how to use a shovel, might be sent to the regions of dust storms, dig out buried farms and, perhaps, work on plans to prevent more dust storms.

Nobody wants to see American cities or farms buried permanently under dust heaps, as cities are said to be buried under the sands of the Sahara and other deserts.

SENATOR BORAH, applying Shakespeare's "neither a borrower nor a lender be" to international dealings, introduces a resolution against "public and private foreign loans," on the ground that "any money loaned abroad is an aid of war."

More important is the fact that any money loaned abroad is very apt, as Uncle Sam can testify, to be money lost.

Internationally, as well as between individuals, lending money is apt to mean losing both the money and the friend.

THE HOUSE of Representatives, refusing to "believe in fairies," has rejected, 206 to 56, the Townsend old-age pension plan. That plan would have given $200 a month to everybody past sixty, requiring to start with, about twenty thousand million dollars a year.

An old colored gentleman admitted that he did not believe in eternal hell fire, "because I don't believe no constitution could stand it."

Uncle Sam's financial "constitution" could hardly stand an annual drain of twenty thousand million dollars, twenty times the amount of the United States' public debt before the war started. After all, "one billion" is some money.

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT'S "security measure," including a moderate pension for the aged, will probably pass. Two hundred dollars a month for everybody past sixty, with the stipulation that every dollar must be spent before the month is out, would be pleasing although calculated to discourage thrift.

Those past sixty will prefer a Roosevelt pension in real money to a Dr. Townsend pension in imaginary money.

The old, as a rule, have ceased dreaming in practical matters and know that a smaller sum in real money is preferable to a bigger sum in dream money.

REAL LENGTH of life depends, not on the number of years, but on how much you do while you are alive.

Alexander the Great, in his short life, lived a thousand times as long as a Galapagos turtle that lives six hundred years.

That is what makes automobiles so valuable. Saving time, making greater accomplishment possible, they make life longer. What applies to automobiles applies to flying.

Mayor LaGuardia, of New York, to visit the scenes of his boyhood in far away Arizona, flew from New York with his wife last Wednesday. Next day he changed to a private plane, went flying over the Grand Canyon; spent the night there. Then he flew on to his boyhood home. Next Monday he will be back in the city hall.

JOE BAUER, who went to school with Mayor LaGuardia long ago, says the Mayor was "short and skinny" as a boy and:

"I used to lick him nearly every day."

Mr. LaGuardia is still short, but no longer skinny, and "licking" him today, after his experience as a war flier in France and a political fighter in New York, would not be so easy.

DETROIT ANNOUNCES that, in the month of March, Henry Ford spent one hundred million dollars, "for wages and materials." This bookkeeping fact seems to clash with the theory that nobody should be allowed to have more than nine million dollars.

It would be hard on Henry Ford's workmen, and those that supply his materials, if his total fortune fell short of his requirements for one month by ninety-one million dollars.

COLUMBUS, O.—"Rough stuff" in fraternity initiations today was a thing of the past at Ohio State University here. Such abolition does not mean, however, according to the Fraternity President's Council that future initiates will not go through a probation period.

Lawn Making

An English gardener when asked how to make a lawn replied: "Oh, it's quite easy, quite easy. I assure you. You prepare the ground carefully, and you sow it with a mixture of the best grades of lawn grass seed, and then all you have to do is roll it for about three hundred years. And there you are."

However, it is not quite so difficult or prolonged an operation as that, but lawns in this country are often made hurriedly and with little care.

Drainage

The land on which a lawn is to be made should be well drained. Most lawns are located where there is natural drainage, but if not, it must be drained by tiles or otherwise.

Preparation of Soil

This work should be thorough as the lawn is to be permanent and that means the work is to be done once forever. Slighting the work at this stage means years of tire-some work and a lawn that will be a disappointment and failure. The soil should be made light and porous to a depth of a foot or more by spading and carefully removing stones and all rubbish encountered. To get best results, cover the soil with manure and bone-meal and spade it down in the fall.

Sowing Seed

Grass seed may be sown successfully either in the spring or autumn. In the late autumn or late spring, seed should be sown more thickly than seed sown earlier. Poor soil requires more seed than rich soil, dry soils or sandy soils require more seed than moist or loamy soils. A pound of mixed seed should be used on a space 15 by 15 feet. Seed sown thickly chokes out the weeds and results in a good thick turf.

Sow seed only when there is no air stirring, very early in the morning or late in the afternoon.

Immediately after sowing, cover the seed by raking lightly and roll the surface with a roller.

On steep banks, a nurse crop may be needed with the grass seed. This consists of about a bushel of oats per acre, mixed with the seed. The oats are not permitted to grow very tall but are frequently cut.

SPORTS Chatter

Derby Talk

LONG SHOT players and the sure thing boys took stock of the Kentucky Derby hopefuls today and decided there was plenty of room for argument.

The arguments, they agreed, may have more to bite on one week from today when Churchill Downs opens its spring meeting. After the non-linea match strides in some actual racing there will be a broader base of comparison.

The Derby, two weeks from today, probably will see Chance Sun favorite since the close of his highly successful juvenile season, go to the post the odds-on favorite, but from here the race appears to be wide open. Some of the wise boys have gone so far as to offer a dollar or so that Chance Sun will not finish in the money.

Some of the "outsiders" have turned in rather impressive workouts, railbirds chirp with monotonous frequency that "anything can happen in a horse race."

Either it's spring fever or just plain backwardness, but the Saxons failed to answer the challenge of the Roumanians to a championship basketball game sometime ago.

Tennis Ace

FOLLOWING in the footsteps of Mrs. May Sutton Bundy, Helen Willis Moody and Helen Jacobs is the latest California net prodigy, Miss Jane Sharp of Pasadena, who at present holds the national indoor tennis crown and is a sure bet to hold down a place on the 1935 Wightman Cup team.

Miss Sharp's rise to court prominence has been meteoric. Almost unknown a little more than a year ago, the fair Californian is now accepted as one of our leading feminine net stars, who may well be a definite threat to Helen Jacobs' supremacy before another twelve months passes by.

Rookie Cy Blanton Allows St. Louis Cardinals Only One Puny Hit

Useless Single Robs Newcomer Of No-Hit Game With Champs

Blanton, Former International Strike-Out King, Amazes Cards, Who Lose, 5-0; Some Other Pitchers Star Yesterday

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer.
HE first outstanding pitching feat of the 1935 major league season goes to the credit of a rookie, Darrell (Cy) Blanton, strike-out king of the International league who went to Pittsburgh last season just in time for one losing appearance.

Making his second major league start yesterday, the 27-year-old right-hander of Waukegan, Okla., started throwing his fast one past the world-champion St. Louis Cardinals the way he used to do it for Albany when he once fanned 20 rivals in one game.

He faced only 31 batters, granted only one puny hit—a single by Spud Davis in the second inning—let only four runners reach first and none third, struck out six batters and wound up with a 3 to 0 triumph.

One burst of base hits in the third brought all the pirate runs as Cookie Lavettto, Tom Padden, Paul Waner, Babe Herman and Arky Vaughan all connected for singles off Bill Hallahan.

Other pitchers besides Blanton also performed brilliantly yesterday. Silas Johnson was charged with 22 Cincinnati defeats last season shut out the Cubs 4 to 0 for the Reds' third straight triumph.

John Whitehead, a "freshman" from Dallas, outpointed the veteran Fred Marberry on the hill, limiting the Detroit Tigers to six hits to give Chicago's White Sox a 3 to 2 triumph, and Lefty Grove, the lanky "if" man of the Red Sox, chalked up a victory in his first start although he was taken out for a pinch hitter in the seventh when Boston scored six of the runs that brought a 10 to 4 triumph over Washington.

Lefty Watson Clark and Johnny Babeich of Brooklyn also starred in hurling honors. Each won a 4 to 2 victory over the Braves in the Patriotic's day doubleheader. Clark also drove in two runs. Babeich fanned Babe Ruth three times.

Philadelphia teams took most of the headlines for hitting. Led by Dolph Camilli, who banged out two homers for a total of four in two days and knocked in seven runs, the Phillies hammered out 23 hits and an 18 to 7 victory over the Giants.

The Athletics took the home run route to a 6 to 5 victory over the Yankees that completely ruined Pat Malone's American league debut. Bob Johnson duplicated Taylor's feat of hitting a homer with three on base after Wally Moses walloped Malone's second pitch for the full distance.

YESTERDAY'S STARS
(By Associated Press)
DOLPH CAMILLI, Phillies—Hit two homers second day in succession, knocking in seven runs in rout of Giants.

CARL REYNOLDS, Red Sox—Hit triple and single, scored two runs and drove in two against Senators.
ST. JOHNSON, Reds—Limited the Cubs to eight hits for 4-0 shutout victory.

BOB JOHNSON, Athletics—Hit homer with bases full to beat the Yankees.
DANNY TAYLOR, Dodgers—Made three hits in first victory over the Braves and hit homer with bases full for winning runs in second.

Legion Baseball Call Is Sounded At Columbiana

COLUMBIANA, April 20.—A meeting will be held in the American Legion hall Wednesday afternoon for the purpose of enrolling all boys interested in becoming members of this year's Legion junior baseball team. Following the meeting and until the opening of the season May 15, tryout practice periods will be held to choose the squad members, which will number about 15.

The local post baseball committee is composed of Raymond Oleckier, R. L. Hawkins and Ross Albright. These men, together with Post Commander W. B. Treadwell, attended a county meeting at Lisbon recently when plans were made.

The eight county teams were divided into two sections at that time. The four northern towns, Salem, Leetonia, Columbiana and East Palestine, will play out a schedule of games each Wednesday and Saturday, beginning May 13, and at the close of the season the winner of the northern county championship will compete in a three-game series with the southern winner, which will be either East Liverpool, Wellsville, Salineville or Lisbon.

Eddie Howell of Salem is county manager.

(By Associated Press)
Baseball results among Ohio colleges yesterday included:
Ohio State university scored a 3 to 2 victory over Michigan in a Big 10 encounter as Ronnie Peters of Lawrenceville, Ohio State pitcher, pitched a one-hit game. A single in the ninth inning by Reginald Wolvenine outfielder, deprived Peters of a perfect game.

At Athens, Ohio university defeated West Virginia, 10 to 4, to run its string of victories up to three straight.

Three rookie pitchers allowed only four hits and enabled Dayton's Ducks of the Mid-Atlantic league to beat the Akron Goodyears in an exhibition game, 7 to 0.

SALEM RUNNERS AT MANSFIELD

Coach Cope Takes 22 Trackmen For Annual Relays

Salem High school's track squad, 22 strong, left at 6 a. m. today for Mansfield where the Quakers will seek to establish some records in the ninth annual Mansfield relays.

Some 51 Ohio schools are entered for the event and while plenty of the schools look like record breakers, Coach Fred Cope believes the Salem cindermen have a pretty fair chance.

The trackmen left this morning wearing new red and jerseys and pants which the school purchased this season.

Cope gave his squad a final workout last night at Reilly stadium, which today will be the scene of a tri-county meet starting at 1:30 p. m.

Following is the complete Salem entry for the meet.

Former Kansas Trackmen Back

Cunningham, Coffman To Appear In Annual Relays Today

(By Associated Press)
LAWRENCE, Kansas, April 20.—Two former University of Kansas athletes and members of the United States Olympic team in 1932, shared the spotlight in the 12th annual Kansas relays today.

Clyde Coffman, competing unattached, was leading a field of 16 at the halfway mark in the decathlon being scored under the new Finnish standard, and Glenn Cunningham, now a graduate student at the University of Iowa, was down for a mile run.

Without winning a single one of the five events yesterday, Coffman gained the front position, scoring 3,723 points. Lovett Burk, University of Oklahoma, with 3,584 points was second, followed by a teammate, Elmo Heves, with 3,486 points.

Opposing Cunningham, king of the milers both indoors and out, were Glen Dawson, Tulsa, Okla., and Harold Manning, Wichita, Kas., and a pacing relay team of Kansas runners.

"They ought to beat me easily," remarked Cunningham. "I'm not worrying about any records in this race."

The session follows a recent session called by a group of interested East Palestine sport fans.

Black Shadow Looms As Fistic Champion

FOXX SAYS HIS BATTING SURE TO IMPROVE

By EDWARD J. NEIL, Associated Press Sports Writer.
NEW YORK, April 20.—James Emory Foxx, considerable of a first baseman at one time, likes catching for the Athletics much better, but one of the reasons is hard to guess.

"With all that equipment on me," he explains, "I'm about the only one on the field able to keep warm in this cold weather. That helps a lot."

Three Games So Far
He's caught only three games of the new season, all there have been, and there has been no sign so far of the falling off in batting power the experts predicted would come from his shift from first base to the catcher's box. He has hit two home runs in three games, indicating that the search for his successor as the home run king might be a bit premature.

"Who'll hit the most homers this year?" he repeated in answer to the direct question. "Well, I don't know. Hal Trosky will get a lot out in Cleveland. Lou Gehrig, with that short right field stands in New York, will hit plenty. Me? Oh, I'll get a few."

Foxx likes catching better than first basing because he feels he's in the game more. He feels it's an ideal spot from which to captain the team, though he admits frankly that there's no great mental gymnastics required of him.

"All I do is carry orders from the boss—Connie Mack."

As for hitting, Jimmy thinks he'll better last year's 334 and will play in about 135 games behind the plate.

Parochial Track Teams To Meet

COLUMBUS, April 20.—Parochial school track teams of the Columbus diocese will hold their sixth annual meet at Ohio State stadium May 11, with runners entered from schools in all parts of the district.

Columbus St. Mary's is the defending high school champion, while Sacred Heart and Holy Name elementary are co-holders of the junior title.

Holy Rosary, Holy Family and St. Marys of Columbus; Our Lady of Victory of Arlington, Mt. Vernon St. Vincent and Newark St. Francis are the probable entries in the senior division.

Preliminary events will be held in the morning, the finals in the afternoon.

Struck By Ball

COLUMBUS, April 20.—Art Funk, third baseman for the Louisville Colonels, was struck by a hard hit ball in batting practice Friday and removed to Mt. Carmel hospital suffering from a possible fractured cheek bone. He was hit by a ball batted by Joe Guyan, Louisville coach.

Conferences Are Called To Revitalize the Party

(By Associated Press)
WASHINGTON, April 20.—With the next presidential convention only about 14 months away, Republican leaders intensified their efforts to prepare their party for the 1936 campaign today.

Conferences aimed at revitalizing the party and evolving tactics for the coming contest were planned at the capital.
Officers Gather
Officers of the Republican national committee gathered in New York to arrange an immediate drive to raise funds there. It was decided the campaign would be extended throughout New York state and ultimately over the nation if it proved successful.

William Allen White, the editor of Emporia, Kas., and former Senator Henry Allen of Kansas, were expected to begin a series of private conferences with members of congress here.

Senator Capper (R. Kan.) said yesterday that White and Allen intended to round up the ideas of Republicans in congress regarding 1936 so an understanding of sectional viewpoints might be given to a contemplated rally of middle-western Republicans at Kansas City in the near future.

White, Allen, Capper, and John Hamilton of Topeka, Kansas, Republican national committeeman, have been among the leaders in arrangements for the Kansas City meeting. Other regional meetings of Republicans have been planned in New England and on the west coast. From all three, leaders have asserted they expect resolutions which will provide assistance in framing the new party platform.

Vandenberg Invited
Senators Vandenberg of Michigan and Dickinson of Iowa, both of whom have been mentioned as possible presidential nominees, are among those who have been invited to attend a luncheon at the capitol on Saturday in honor of White and Allen.

Senator McNary of Oregon and Rep. Snell of New York, the party leaders in congress, and the co-chairman of the Republican senatorial-congressional committee—Senator Hastings of Delaware and Rep. Bolton of Ohio—also are expected to be present.

Lucky Birthdays

CARLISLE, Pa., April 20.—If you are hoping for fame, consider the month of your birth.
Dr. E. C. Herber of Dickinson college told the Carlisle, Pa., Academy of Science that August appears to have produced the largest number of famous persons; May, the least.

The conclusions resulted from a study of 40,000 prominent persons.

More Hard Luck

CADIZ, April 20.—Robert Reynolds, 20, just recovering from a broken shoulder suffered when he fell off a roof, lost three fingers yesterday when he applied a match to a dynamite cap. Two younger brothers were killed last year, one by an oil tank explosion and one by being scalded.

HAUPTMANN MAY BE HEARD AGAIN

Counsel May Take Case Before Supreme Court If Necessary

By PAT McGRADY.
Associated Press Staff Writer
BLAIRSTOWN, N. J., April 20.—Robert H. Hauptmann, one of counsel for Bruno Richard Hauptmann, announced today the Hauptmann case would be taken to the United States supreme court if necessary.
Roeckers filed with the prosecution 143 assignments of error as the opening step in the appeal to the highest New Jersey court from the conviction and death sentence, of the Pennsylvania trial court.

Condemns Court

Setting forth in blunt terms formal condemnation of the court, the prosecution, the presence of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh at the trial, the press and the "circus maximum" of the action in general, which ended with conviction and death sentence for his client, H. Hauptmann, was against the weight of evidence, and he charged the court, presided over by senior justice of the New Jersey supreme court, Thomas W. Trenchard with "impairing a free and unbiased verdict."

Roeckers said that the papers signed by himself and Judge Frederick A. Pope as counsel, and C. Lloyd Fisher as attorney embrace 143 assignments of error and 143 causes for reversal.

BATAVIA, April 20.—State examiners today continued their study of records in the office of former Clermont County Auditor B. L. Ketchum, with word from Prosecutor Frank Roberts that a shortage of "well up to $20,000" probably will be found by the time the inquiry is completed.

$20,000 Shortage Is Found by Examiners

To date the figure is approximately $15,000, according to W. H. Howland, one of the examiners from the office of State Auditor Joseph T. Tracy, Columbus.

Face Pen Term

CHILLICOTHE, April 20.—Robert O'Dell, 30, of Portsmouth, faced today a possible one to two-year term in prison, following his conviction of manslaughter in connection with an automobile accident that cost the life of Mrs. Clarence R. Horton of Columbus. Mrs. Horton was killed and her husband injured when a truck, driven by O'Dell, collided with Horton's automobile near here March 9.

Educator Succumbs

COLUMBUS, April 20.—Dr. Jesse Erwin Day, 47, professor of chemistry at Ohio State university, died suddenly last night of coronary thrombosis. He was to have delivered four addresses before the American Chemical society in New York next week. Dr. Day was widely known for research work on smoke prevention.

Theater Attractions

"McFadden's Flats," a comedy starring Walter Kelly and Andy Clyde, is being shown for the last time tonight at the State theatre.

Starting Sunday, at the State is Wallace Berry in "West Point of the Air," with Robert Young, Lewis Stone, James Gleason and Maureen O'Sullivan. The picture is filmed almost entirely at Randolph Field, Tex., training school for young airplane pilots. Berry's hobby being aviation, he plays to perfection the part of a grizzled old aviation sergeant. The polish and military bearing of Lewis Stone adds much to his role as Samuel Carter, officer in charge of the aviation training center. The love interest is portrayed by Maureen O'Sullivan and Robert Young.

"West Point of the Air" shows the actual training of army pilots at the greatest of all flying schools. But, even more important than the amazing thrills of the film, the picture also shows the women's side of a great enterprise.

Tuesday and Wednesday

A double feature will be shown at the State Tuesday and Wednesday, "A Dog of Flanders," starring Frankie Thomas, who played here

not so long ago in "Wednesday's Child."

"$10 Raise," with Edward Everett Horton, should prove very entertaining as the other feature.

Thursday

Thursday only brings William Gargan in "A Night at the Ritz." This is a riotous comedy, with lots of fast action and delightful romance.

Friday and Saturday

The inimitable William Powell with the attractive Ginger Rogers fills the bill for the weekend in "Star of Midnight," from the book by the same name written by Arthur Somers Roche. Powell portrays the man-about-town who turns detective when an intriguing murder interests him. There is plenty of love and mystery woven around society and night life in New York.

Grand-Saturday and Sunday

Mary Astor and Lyle Talbot in "Red Hot Tires" will be shown Saturday and Sunday at the Grand. This is a drama of the race tracks, filled with breath-taking action and death-defying stunts which are performed by a score of nationally famous racing drivers, although several of the cast participate in the races.

Hitler Receives Fighting Planes As Gifts For His 46th Birthday

(By Associated Press)

On the eve of his 46th birthday Adolf Hitler was being honored by the German people with the gift of a new fighting plane. The dictator of Germany received a letter from the Reichstag, the German parliament, congratulating him on his birthday and wishing him success in his efforts to bring about a new world order.

Planes For Birthday

Among the world's most powerful rulers, Hitler stands out today as a pattern of paradox. Of humble Austrian birth, he will be hailed on his birthday through all Germany; sponsor of anti-semitism, he will be feted even in Palestine; dictator of a nation until only recently disarmed, he will receive fighting airplanes among his birthday presents.

His Acts In Year

The rearmament of the Reich, including compulsory military service, was but the latest of Hitler's spectacular acts in the last year. On June 30, 1934, he purged his party in blood. The official death toll was 77; the explanation, that a revolt had been planned and the victims were traitors.

On Aug. 2, on the death of President Paul von Hindenburg, he concentrated the powers of president and chancellor in his own hands.

On Jan. 13, 1935, his propaganda machine ground out a victory in the Saar, which voted overwhelmingly in plebiscite to return to Germany.

Both Noticeably Quiet

Both have been noticeably quiet since Francis W. Poulson, Democratic state chairman, visited Farley two weeks ago.

Whether Poulson, Democratic patronage dispenser in what may be a key state in the 1936 election, carried an "olive branch" to Farley, patronage chief in the National administration, has not been determined. Poulson and Davey have declined to discuss the trip to Washington.

Meanwhile, the governor's charge of waste and inefficiency in the administration of relief in Ohio are being borne out, but investigators have made little headway on Hopkins' charges that firms seeking relief business were "shaken down" for $8,000 by the governor's campaign committee. A charge which caused Davey to ask the relief chief's arrest for criminal libel.

C. C. Stillman, who was ordered by President Roosevelt to take charge of the Ohio relief setup after Hopkins submitted what he called "incontrovertible" evidence of a corrupt tieup between politics and relief, has been carrying out a drastic shakeup which Davey says is just what he wanted.

What Has Been Done

Nearly 200 employees have been discharged, numerous county relief officials have resigned or been transferred; spoilage of several thousand pounds of relief meat has been uncovered, and Stillman is correcting what he called a "deplorable" condition in Trumbull county. Relief workers there are alleged to have had their automobiles painted with relief money, charged relief office for car mileage from their homes, and conducted themselves with a general disregard for regulations.

A legislative committee investigating charges of both Davey and Hopkins has sent investigators and auditors into eight other counties.

As for Hopkins' allegations, a grand jury inquiry has resulted in an indictment for embezzlement of John A. Lee, missing hay buyer for the relief department who signed an affidavit saying he solicited funds for the governor's campaign committee.

The legislative committee has summoned Poulson, John S. McCombe, fund collector for the Democratic war chest, and five others for questioning Tuesday night about the alleged shakedown.

Until Lee is found, County Prosecutor Donald J. Hopkins says, there is not much he can do further but "watch and wait."

Kills Rail Sitters

STUEBENVILLE, April 20.—Lewis Tobacco, 18, of Weirton, W. Va., was killed and three companions were injured when an automobile, failing to make a curve, crashed into the fence upon which they sat. The driver, Frank Leskisi, was held.

NEW LAW VOIDS BILLS OF SALE

7,500 Scrapped At Lisbon As Result of New Rulings

LISBON, April 20.—As a direct change in the automobile bill of sale law, 7,500 blank bills of sale received only recently by Clerk of Courts T. Vaughn Yates have been rendered useless. The stock now on hand was ordered before officials here were notified of the change in the law, and the receipt of new instructions from the Tax Commission of Ohio. A similar situation will exist in every county in the state.

Prices To Be Shown

Under the new law, the selling of the tax commission, the selling and delivered price of the motor unit must be shown on the bill of sale. Also, hereafter, the grantor will have to file the bill of sale instead of the purchaser as has been the custom.

The number of the vendor's county license must also be shown on the new bill of sale.

The tax commission has just informed every clerk of court in Ohio that hereafter:

"Bills of sale must be recorded by the grantor instead of the grantee."

"Cancelled tax receipts must be affixed to the purchaser's copy of bills of sale, and the vendor's portion of such tax receipts must accompany the duplicate copy of the bill of sale, said vendor's portion of the stamps to be voided (in a manner later to be prescribed by the tax commission). Tax receipts need not accompany bills of sale in the following cases:

"When the purchaser is the state of Ohio or any of its political subdivisions."

"When the vendor is not regularly engaged in the business of selling motor vehicles."

Not A Retail Sale

"When the transaction between the vendor and vendee is not a retail sale as defined by section 5546-1 of the General Code."

"When the vendee is a non-resident of the state of Ohio, and the vehicle is delivered to a destination outside the state of Ohio to be non-resident."
